

18. RTI (Right to Information)

The right to information is a FR under Article 19 (1) of the Indian Constitution. In 1976, in the Raj Narain vs the State of Uttar Pradesh case, the Supreme Court ruled that Right to information will be treated as a fundamental right under article 19. The Supreme Court held that in Indian democracy, people are the masters and they have the right to know about the working of the government.

Thus the government enacted the Right to Information act in 2005 which provides machinery for exercising this fundamental right.

Objectives of the RTI Act

1. Empower citizens to question the government.
2. The act promotes transparency and accountability in the working of the government.
3. The act also helps in containing corruption in the government and work for the people in a better way.
4. The act envisages building better-informed citizens who would keep necessary vigil about the functioning of the government machinery.

Important provisions under the Right to Information Act, 2005

- Section 2(h): Public authorities mean all authorities and bodies under the union government, state government or local bodies. The civil societies that are substantially funded, directly or indirectly, by the public funds also fall within the ambit of RTI.
- Section 4 1(b): Government has to maintain and proactively disclose information.
- Section 6: Prescribes a simple procedure for securing information.
- Section 7: Prescribes a time frame for providing information(s) by PIOs.
- Section 8: Only minimum information exempted from disclosure.
- Section 8 (1) mentions exemptions against furnishing information under the RTI Act.
- Section 8 (2) provides for disclosure of information exempted under the Official Secrets Act, 1923 if the larger public interest is served.
- Section 19: Two-tier mechanism for appeal.
- Section 20: Provides penalties in case of failure to provide information on time, incorrect, incomplete or misleading or distorted information.
- Section 23: Lower courts are barred from entertaining suits or applications.
However, the writ jurisdiction of the SC and high courts under Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution remains unaffected

Significance of the RTI Act

- The RTI Act, 2005 empowers the citizen to question the secrecy and abuse of power practised in governance.
- It is through the information commissions at the central and state levels that access to such information is provided.
- RTI information can be regarded as a public good, for it is relevant to the interests of citizens and is a crucial pillar for the functioning of a transparent and vibrant democracy.
- The information obtained not only helps in making government accountable but also useful for other purposes which would serve the overall interests of the society.
- Every year, around six million applications are filed under the RTI Act, making it the most extensively used sunshine legislation globally.
- These applications seek information on a range of issues, from holding the government accountable for the delivery of basic rights and entitlements to questioning the highest offices of the country.
- Using the RTI Act, people have sought information that governments would not like to reveal as it may expose corruption, human rights violations, and wrongdoings by the state.
- The access to information about policies, decisions and actions of the government that affect the lives of citizens is an instrument to ensure accountability.
- The Supreme Court has, in several judgments, held that the RTI is a fundamental right flowing from Articles 19 and 21 of the Constitution, which guarantee to citizens the freedom of speech and expression and the right to life, respectively.

Recent Amendments

- The RTI amendment Bill 2013 removes political parties from the ambit of the definition of public authorities and hence from the purview of the RTI Act.
- The draft provision 2017 which provides for closure of case in case of death of applicant can lead to more attacks on the lives of whistleblowers.
- The proposed RTI Amendment Act 2018 is aimed at giving the Centre the power to fix the tenures and salaries of state and central information commissioners, which are statutorily protected under the RTI Act. The move will dilute the autonomy and independence of CIC.
- The Act proposes to replace the fixed 5-year tenure with as much prescribed by the government.

Criticism of RTI Act

- One of the major set-back to the act is that poor record-keeping within the bureaucracy results in missing files.
- There is a lack of staffing to run the information commissions.
- The supplementary laws like the Whistle Blower's Act are diluted, this reduces the effect of RTI law.

- Since the government does not proactively publish information in the public domain as envisaged in the act and this leads to an increase in the number of RTI applications.
- There have been reports of frivolous RTI applications and also the information obtained have been used to blackmail the government authorities
